Good Morning,

The Lower Mainland Down Syndrome Society is an organization that provides education, resources, therapy and services to individuals with Down syndrome and their families.

Every year we contact companies, organizations, etc. to encourage their participation in joining the rest of Canada in lighting up in Yellow and Blue on World Down Syndrome Day, which is March 21st.

This day is recognized worldwide by hundreds of thousands of families and organizations each year.

It is our goal to light up as much of our planet earth in yellow and blue on March 21st.

With each year that passes we add more and more places who take our awareness campaign to new heights by joining in and lighting up.

It is also a fun day as employers and employee team up to wear our blue and yellow colors, and some even get really into it by wearing crazy sock, which represent the shape of chromosomes, which is what causes Down syndrome.

It is our hope that you will join us by lighting up on March 21st, or have your employees wear the Down syndrome colors to help promote awareness, and much needed education and understanding.

Last year we had companies go the extra mile and make donations to the Lower Mainland Down Syndrome Society so if any of your employees , or customers would like to do this we have set up a donate button on our website at www.lmdss.com to make this easier for those who would like to support the kids in other ways.

Also attached is a poster that can be printed and posted at your place of business that helps to promote our Light up for World Down Syndrome Day.

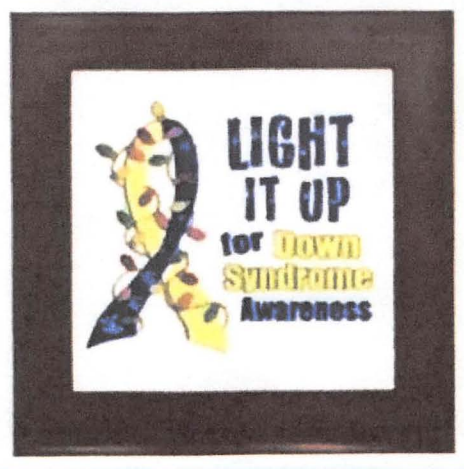

Please confirm your participation to join us, as we would love to add your company information to our social media.

Look forward to your reply.

Sincerely,
